REPORTS have reached London through diplomatic channels that a giant Soviet oil research centre has been set up to try and find oil for the Russian war machine. The Soviet leaders are alarmed over the discovery, made some months ago, that the oil wells in the Caucasus are beginning to run dry. Urgent measures from the Soviet General Staff have emphasized that it is imperative to find and develop new sources within the shortest possible time. This is one of the most important developments in the cold war. The Soviet leaders know that without oil their war machine would be paralyzed. In sharp contrast to the new oil research centre is Molotov. One of his first steps was to rush hundreds of geologists to the province of Sinkiang in China where undeveloped oil resources may be hidden. He also ordered top priority for drillings in Kirgizia, Central Asia, and on the island of Sakhalin.

A NEW man rapidly approaching top rank has made his appearance in the Kremlin. His name is Nikita Khrushchev, war-time Premier of the Ukraine and now a member of the all-powerful Politburo. Khrushchev, comparatively unknown outside the Soviet Union, is not a member of the Old Guard. Too many of the old-time Bolsheviks have been connected with Trotsky or other anti-Stalinists, and it is only the new generation of Bolshevik leaders who are really trusted today. Nikita Khrushchev joined the Bolsheviks in 1918, after they had seized power. He reached top level shortly before the war in Moscow, generally regarded as a key post. It was Stalin himself, who made him a member of the Politburo, and the result is that there are now three parties at work inside the Kremlin instead of two—the Molotovites, the Stalinists, and now the Khrushchevites.

INSIDE the British Foreign Office there is something like a cold war going on over Middle East policy. When King Abdullah of Jordan made a visit to London about a year ago, he received a carefully worded reply which he regarded as encouragement. At the same time new directives were drafted for General Sir Brian Robertson, outgoing High Commissioner in Germany, who has been appointed commander-in-chief of the Middle East, where his main task will be to resume Anglo-Egyptian treaty talks which were suspended in 1947. According to these directives nothing will be done in the meantime to hamper these talks. The authors of the directives are now complaining that British support for King Abdullah's peace talks with the Israel Government is likely to render Anglo-Egyptian negotiations more difficult and should, therefore, be postponed. But other sections insist that peace between Israel and her neighbors is at least as important as a new Anglo-Egyptian treaty. The battle continues.

THERE have been confidential talks in London with Israeli representatives who proposed that Britain should supply arms to Israel on terms similar to those granted to Arab states. After lengthy negotiations it was decided that, for the time being, Britain would not send any arms to Israel. The conflict has caused some surprise among British military experts who have taken part in these discussions. They had been under the impression that the Foreign Office wanted some kind of arms agreement with Israel. Furthermore, while in hospital Mr. Bevin received three baskets of flowers with best wishes and compliments from King Farouk of Egypt.

PM Demands 'Total Pioneering' As Baghdad Air Lift Begins

Ben Gurion Calls On Mapai Youth

HAIFA, Saturday. — An appeal to Mapai youth to volunteer for "total pioneering" to help the State absorb new immigrants was made by the Prime Minister, Mr. Ben Gurion, at a meeting of Mapai's active workers who convened for a discussion on "The Pioneering Destiny of the Party" at the Betenu Hall here today.

Such tasks as caring for immigrant children, educating and instructing immigrant workers, teaching them trades, working on national duties in ports and airfields, and the building of roads, had assumed proportions for which normal means were no longer sufficient, Mr. Ben Gurion said. There were too many newcomers to absorb, and the State could not achieve everything.

According to Mapai records, there were some 20,000 Party members in the 20 to 25 age group.

He called on them to volunteer for a two-year period after their release from the Army. He expected some 2,000 young men to register for this service before the Party's annual conference on June 28, he said.

Jews from China Arrive at Lydda

TEL AVIV, Saturday. — A party of about 50 Chinese Jews arrived in Israel by Near East Airlines early yesterday.

They flew from Hong Kong to which they had made their way from Harbin.

Poland Beats Israel at Tennis

WARSAW, Saturday (UP). — Poland's Davis Cup doubles team beat Israel today to clinch a 2-1 victory in the second round of the European zone.

Yesterday the Polish team captured both singles matches in the opening day of the round. Vladislav Konecni, in the first match, beat Israel's 1948 champion, Arish Weiss, in straight sets, 6-3, 6-4. He was followed by his compatriot, S. Plask, who was forced to four sets before beating Jacob Buntman, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4, 6-1. Konecni's superiority over Weiss was apparent throughout the match, as he kept his opponent constantly on the run with sharply angled ground strokes to the corners. On occasions he came to the net, but seldom did so until he was sure of being able to put away a winning volley.

Weiss played an essentially baseline game, but was often caught out of position at the net by one of Konecni's neatly placed angled shots. He showed signs of fatigue about halfway through the second set. Buntman displayed a strong first service on several occasions and often made brilliant defensive returns of his opponent's angled drives.

31 Soviet Ships In English Channel

FALMOUTH, Cornwall, Saturday. (Reuter). — The captain of the Soviet ship, "Tambor," another vessel of the fleet of Russian ships now in the English Channel, said here today that there were 31 Russian ships altogether in the area.

The first of the Russian ships appeared in the Channel on Wednesday and Thursday, setting off widespread speculation as to their destination.

The "Tambor" captain told the customs officials he was carrying a fleet of 30 trawlers to the Black Sea fishing grounds.

First Two Skymasters Fly 175 Elderly Iraqi Jews to Cyprus

BAGHDAD, Saturday. — The first of more than 12,000 Jewish men, women and children left here on Friday aboard two American Skymasters for their new home in Israel.

One hundred and seventy-five immigrants, mostly elderly men and women, left the country under a new law permitting them to do so by renouncing their Iraqi nationality. If the new exodus goes according to plan, Near East Airlines will fly 4,000 immigrants in the first month in what promises to be the biggest civil air lift in history.

Since the Iraqi Government has not yet recognized Israel, it is not officially indicated where the passengers are going after their "technical halt" on Cyprus. It is generally known, however, that Israel is their final destination.

30 Kilos of Baggage

Each immigrant is allowed to take 30 kilograms of personal baggage on the flight. The initial flight is scheduled to be followed this month by 26 others, each carrying 80 persons.

More than 12,000 prospective immigrants have already registered throughout Iraq. It is estimated that 40,000 more are registered at temporary centres. Iraq Tour, the national travel agency, is acting as the agent for the Iraqi firm whose aircraft are being handled at Baghdad and other centres by Iraq Airways.

Israeli police officers accompanied the initial flight to make sure that the planes landed at Cyprus instead of proceeding directly to Lydda Airport.

Two Skymasters

From Nicola, it was reported that the two Skymasters carrying the immigrants touched down at the airport, starting the shuttle service.

The planes have to make a 400-mile detour through Cyprus on a journey which is 600 miles direct from Baghdad to Lydda. The Iraqi police officers who came with the immigrants remained at Nicola until today when they flew back to Baghdad.

Most of the passengers who landed at Nicola were from among the poorer elements and consisted of elderly men and women and infants. For the 20 minutes they were there they did not leave the plane, but were given water and biscuits to tide them over the remainder of the journey. When the plane took off again it flew in the direction of Israel.

Hundreds Hurt in U.S. Blast

SOUTH AMBOY, N.J., Saturday (AP). — A thunderous explosion last night ripped through a string of barges which were loaded with ammunition, battering this waterfront city into a tangle of wreckage. There are four known dead and 20 persons missing.

Three hundred people, some of them in a critical condition, have been taken to hospitals. It is estimated that a further 200 have been treated by first aid squads and doctors in the stricken area.

Officials said the damage runs into millions of dollars. The Pennsylvania Railroad said its docks area, where the blast occurred, has suffered the worst damage.

A state of emergency has been declared in this city of 10,000 inhabitants and State Police have thrown a cordon round the outskirts to keep out people from neighbouring areas. Troops with fixed bayonets patrolled the area throughout the night. Officers said there had been no looting.

The President of the International Brotherhood of Shipbuilders said the employees were to have been loaded on to one of his ships off South Amboy for shipment to India. He declined to say whether it was a private or government shipment.

Another report stated that the arms shipments were destined for Pakistan, which has been authorized to purchase munitions in the U.S. The Pakistan Ambassador confirmed that his country was buying arms but could not say definitely whether the blasted shipment was slated for Pakistan.

Bayar President Of Turkey

ISTANBUL, Saturday (AP). — Celal Bayar, leader of the Democratic Party, will be the new President of Turkey.

At a Party caucus today his desire to remain simply the leader of his victorious party was unanimously overruled. He will be formally elected President on Monday when the grand national assembly convenes in its first formal session. His choice as Prime Minister will then form the new government.

New Birth-to-Death Social Security Plan to Cover All

TEL AVIV, Saturday. — Plans for a complete birth-to-death social insurance scheme to cater for the entire population are to be published for public debate and comment next month.

The scheme is now being discussed by the Cabinet and will shortly be brought to the floor of the Knesset. The plan was outlined to the press on Friday by Mrs. Golda Myerson, Minister of Labour and National Insurance, and Mr. I. Kanner (Knesset), Chairman of the Inter-Ministerial Planning Committee for Social Insurance.

According to the plan, the scheme will be introduced in three stages. The first includes free hospitalization for those who need it, free dental treatment for children, free medical care for all employed persons old-aged pensions (over 60 for women, 65 for men), grants for babies, grants for families upon the death of the breadwinner, pensions for "transitional cases" (before completion of the plan) and insurance for agricultural workers.

The second stage completes the country-wide medical care plan to take in the entire population, provides disability insurance for all citizens and completes the range of social benefits including training for the disabled. The third stage calls for children's allowances and full free hospitalization for the whole country.

Introducing the scheme, Mrs. Myerson stressed the achievement of Israel, which while still only in the second year of its independence, was already preparing such an all-embracing social insurance scheme. She pointed out that the groundwork for the scheme had been laid even before the establishment of the State, thanks to the efforts of the Histadrut. This would make implementation of the plan much easier, she said, as both workers and employers were already used to the idea.

A Great Day

It will be a great day for Israel when the Bill is finally passed by the Knesset. It was almost our ambition to create not only a State, but a different and good State.

The Minister anticipated debate and criticism both in the Knesset and the country.

Arabs Refuse Talks Unless Israel Takes Back Refugees

Garreau Hopes For Compromise

NEW YORK, Saturday. — M. Roger Garreau, President of the U.N. Trusteeship Council, said on his arrival from Europe yesterday that there was "a possibility" of a compromise being worked out over the Jerusalem internationalization issue when the General Assembly meets in September. He would report to the Council at Lake Success on June 1.

M. Garreau told reporters "The Government of Jordan has refused to consider any form of internationalization." He was awaiting a memorandum from the Government of Israel on the issue and expected to hear from them "within a few days."

The Trusteeship Council is unable to implement the U.N. statute on internationalization without the cooperation of both governments," he added. The Israel Government has indicated that they are ready to discuss some reasonable compromise; hence the door is still open to negotiations as far as Israel is concerned, he added.

M. Garreau said the situation was complicated by the reversal of the attitude of the Soviet Union on the issue. The Russians had formerly voted in favour of internationalization, but now opposed it, he pointed out.

Stronger Role

There was considerable speculation here that Israel might offer to give the U.N. a slightly stronger role in safeguarding the city's religious sites than it did in the original plan.

What, if any, concessions Israel might make was a closely guarded secret. But speculation here was that Israel might offer to give U.N. representatives slightly more supervisory power.

State Dept. Says Nazism Dead

By JESSE KEL LURIE, Jerusalem Post Correspondent

NEW YORK, Saturday. — Mr. Benjamin B. Butler, Assistant U.S. High Commissioner in Germany, finally delivered his speech yesterday announcing the State Department's new line that Nazism is dead in Germany.

The State Department had officially sponsored his appearance before the Foreign Policy Association, a private organization for research in international affairs, and distributed copies of the speech. Previous speeches by the High Commissioner, Mr. John McCloy, and his Jewish Assistant, Mr. Burtinweiser, had attacked resurgent German nationalism. This had led to the Anti-Democratic League of the Free World, headed by friends of Mr. Burtinweiser, into accepting his offer to speak at their convention in Chicago last Sunday.

But despite their anti-Soviet policy, the A.D.L. could not stomach McCloy's and Burtinweiser's new cold war ramification of re-establishing all Nazis, including the comparatively few who were tried and sentenced to short terms. With the necessity of six million Jewish dead in sight, the A.D.L. demanded that the State Department force and troops and police.

4 States Reject PCC Request For New Geneva Peace Meeting

GENEVA, Saturday (UP). — Four Arab states formally notified the U.N. Palestine Conciliation Commission today that they insist on their provision that they will not enter into direct peace talks with Israel unless the latter agrees first to take back Arab refugees and reestablish them, reliable sources said today.

Commonwealth in S.E. Asia Plan

SYDNEY, Saturday (Reuter). — A three-year $3m. technical aid programme for South and Southeast Asia was announced by the Commonwealth Consultative Committee here yesterday.

The committee, averting a threatened deadlock by a compromise, agreed that its assistance scheme should begin to operate within the next few months.

Nine Commonwealth nations of the southern Asiatic region are to be told that their "full association" would be welcomed.

A communique said the Committee recommended that development of Asian areas should proceed by progressive stages under a plan covering a period of six years. According to informed sources here, the sum of $3m. has been mentioned as the total of commitments over six years, but that is to be determined at the suggested London conference in September.

The $3m. for technical assistance over a three-year period is understood to be an emergency measure of immediate aid, these sources stated.

'Hands Off M.E.' Say US and UK

LONDON, Saturday (Reuter). — Britain and the United States, in official statements interpreted as a "hands off the Middle East" declaration, state that they "remain vitally concerned in the independence, integrity and security of Greece, Turkey and Persia."

The statements were issued by British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and American Secretary of State Dean Acheson after the Atlantic Pact talks in London, and promised a continuation of direct support through military and economic aid.

These two declarations of continued interest in the security of the Middle East were a carefully considered act of policy by the British and American Governments designed to warn Russia against any renewal of pressure, it is considered in diplomatic quarters here.

The statements, which were understood to have been coordinated, were issued to make it clear both to the Greek, Persian and Turkish governments and to the Soviet Union that the development of the Atlantic community does not imply any sort of "Atlantic isolationism," it was felt here.

JORDAN STERLING

LONDON, Saturday (PTA). — The British Government is reported to be unwilling to surrender more than £150,000 monthly for Jordan and the latter's Minister of Finance, Suleiman Sukkar, is pressing for larger releases from Jordan's £10m. frozen assets.

No New Members

Though the Council of the North Atlantic Pact at its recent meeting in London did not decide to increase the scope of the treaty by admitting new members, there is no doubt that the Western Powers think of both their military and economic responsibilities as going far beyond the Atlantic area.
